Delegate to Dominate

Build Your Virtual Workforce and Buy Back Your Time

Most agents try to grow by doing more. Top producers grow by doing less of the wrong things.

In this session, you'll learn how to effectively work with virtual assistants to take tasks off your plate, create better systems, and free yourself up to focus on what actually drives your business. From admin work and marketing support to follow-up and organization, you'll discover where a virtual assistant can make the biggest impact and how to build a working relationship that delivers real results.

This is a practical, real-world approach to delegation that helps you move out of overwhelm and into control. You'll leave with clear ideas on what to delegate, how to get started, and how to turn support into a true competitive advantage. Participants will learn how to identify the highest-impact tasks to delegate, understand the best roles for virtual assistants in their business, and find the right support to match their needs. The session will also cover how to onboard and train effectively, create simple systems for communication and accountability, and use delegation to free up time for income-producing activities while reducing burnout.

MIC TO MARKET

BUILD AUTHORITY, STAY TOP OF MIND, AND TURN A PODCAST INTO A CONTENT MACHINE

If people don't know you, they can't choose you.

Podcasting is one of the most powerful ways to build authority and stay top of mind. The problem is most people overthink it and never get started.

In this session you will learn how to launch a podcast with purpose, structure episodes that keep people listening, and turn each recording into content across multiple platforms. This is not about chasing downloads. It is about becoming the go-to name in your market.

You will walk away knowing how to attract the right audience, simplify your workflow, repurpose one episode into multiple pieces of content, and use podcasting as a long-term strategy for visibility, referrals, and growth.
